

A simple guide for Organ Donation

At AMDHA, we believe in the power of giving back. Organ donation is a special way to help others, even after you're gone. We want to make sure everyone knows about this amazing opportunity to save lives.

What is Organ Donation?

Organ donation is like sharing a special gift. It means giving a part of your body (like a kidney or your heart) to someone who's very sick and needs it to live. You can donate when you're alive or after you pass away.

Who Can Donate?

Almost anyone can be an organ donor, no matter your age. What's important is that your organs are healthy.

Why is it Important?

Many people are waiting for an organ transplant, and sadly, some die waiting. Your donation could save someone's life!

Did you know?

In India, the first successful deceased organ donation occurred on 3rd August 1994.

Thousands of people in India are waiting for an organ transplant.

One organ donor can save up to eight lives.

Age is not a barrier to organ donation. Senior citizens can still donate organs and tissues, making a lasting impact on others' lives.

Your legacy can live on. Even in your golden years, you have the power to give the ultimate gift – the gift of life. Consider registering as an organ donor today.

Types of Donation

- Living Donation: This is when you donate an organ while you're still alive. It's usually a kidney or part of your liver.
- Deceased Donation: This is when you donate organs after you pass away. You can donate many organs this way, like your heart, lungs, and kidneys.

How to Donate

It's easy to sign up! Do it online (see below) or talk to your doctor.

Remember to tell your family about your decision, as they'll need to agree after you're gone.

To register as a pledger via aadhar card or mobile number :
<https://notto.abdm.gov.in/register>

Visit Website for more information : <https://notto.abdm.gov.in/>

Myths and Facts

- Myth: Organ donation will disfigure my body.
- Fact: Doctors take great care to respect your body.
- Myth: I'm too old to donate.
- Fact: Age isn't a big factor. Your organs' health is what matters.

Thinking About It

Organ donation is a wonderful act of kindness. It's a chance to help someone even after you're gone. Talk to your family and consider registering as a donor today. You could be a hero to someone in need!

Want to Learn More?

Ask your doctor or visit the National Organ and Tissue Transplant Organization (NOTTO) website <https://notto.abdm.gov.in/>

Remember, your decision to donate could be the greatest gift you ever give.

Register for Organ Donation Now!